Lets say I have a database with a bunch of SQL records, that look like: id, name, hobby To compare two records, I'd use: select * from theTable where name = 'name1' or hobby = 'hobby1' Is there a one-liner in PHP to represent: select * from theTable where name in ('name1', 'name2', 'name3') and hobby = 'hobby1' I'm looking for the shortest possible expression of the condition. A: You can use in_array() to do this: $names = array('name1', 'name2', 'name3'); if(in_array('name2', $names)) { echo "oh yeah"; } Edit: if you want to search all the values in the array you can do: $names = array('name1', 'name2', 'name3'); if(in_array('hobby1', $names)) { echo "oh yeah"; } ... and if you have a list of values, you can do the same but it's a bit more verbose: $names = array('name1', 'name2', 'name3'); $hobbies = array('hobby1', 'hobby2', 'hobby3'); if(in_array('hobby1', $names) || in_array('hobby2', $names) || in_array('hobby3', $ 55cdc1ed1c
